Rooms for the new Israelites to visit in Christ's body.

How do you like that variant spelling of mama? There is a boob at mamma mac's. Yep, Peor. Posted with this article is the resume she wrote of her own volition, in her own hand, when she set out to apply for a job at Walmart and went through the online application process at the local Public Library, next to that infamous Staples street Walmart. Don't worry Walmart, mac knows she is not welcome in your establishment. So she never ventures beyond the parking lot near your premises.

This article is not about the business as usual. First, it's obvious Mary is a hell of a faker. Mary fakes Parkinson's. She pulled off her most recent caper, landing her in a local hospital, as opposed to the jailing she earned shoplifting at Walgreens around the corner. In the small hours of the morning with no lights on her tricycle she ventured out and convinced the police she needed medical attention when caught. Don't let her slip through your fingers again. It will be very costly.

Putting down ritual worship in one's own home is an egregious exercise. God knows what prayers were made by the woman, women, of the home. Some prayers you might understand the reasons too. If life is at risk, you will be taught why the object is significant and object and ritual removal happen like a dance. A righteous person is constantly removing ritual and cleaning and bringing about order. Making a bed, storing ones things in a ditty bag, wiping down common areas after use, keeping objects in order for use, much like a machine shop, placing and removing locks on doors, moving bunk assignments, and taking back the kitchen, bath and laundry, are some Godly chores with moving to and fro motions.

During the dance you might observe the cords of the window blinds are knotted, like macramé, only this looks trashy not resembling art or dexterous discipline. (You certainly wouldn't want to wear it.) Before God allows you to untie the knots in that cord you might be hanging a basket of flowers or a light fixture in place first. (No, when the blinds were a ritual, you take down the ritual first. Not just buy new blinds.) You might find that before you replace bulbs that appear burned out you find these were partially unscrewed from the light fixture.

Before you can screw in the bulbs you are discovering a missing bulb is a broken stump of a bulb that requires pliers to unscrew before installing a new bulb. Before dealing with that light fixture you just might need to rid the premises of all sources of ritual water, first and foremost.

The home is a defiled space that corporations spend billions the world over combatting in the work place. Why? Women are costly employees. These are the Satanists' against God that are building perversion against righteously intended founding documents. These niggers of the workplace are male and female. Augusta and House of Windsor you have cost the world much and now enjoy the fruit of your looms. Working corruption against God is death.

Headquarters will cover the progression of removal of ritual wickedness from the home. At mac's Corpus headquarters, it is a humble residence, patched and cleaned and disadvantaged with Peor's occupancy. She needs jailing.

All of these steps are wearing. mac learned how Russia is going to grow and expand by how mac moved into her own home and took town the murdering thief Mary McRae. Mary is in the process of moving through her piles of ritual bric-a-brac to make room for three occupants to replace mac in her absence. Wesley gets the cred for moving Mary on this one. He wants his corner bedroom back.

The residence is without internet, phone, cable, and insurance. It has natural gas, electric, sewer, water, trash-pickup and is un-mortgaged. The driveway parks two vehicles and the yard is fenced. The kitchen is basically appointed and the electrical cannot support either a microwave or hairdryer. There is hot and cold water indoors with two commodes. The laundry is on the outdoor back porch.
