Stars upon th'ars. Doctor Zeus lessons in command. You expected Cat in the Hat from Me? Running a nursery is over. No, Morris, you do not have nine lives. You might have nine wives. A nice rhyme for the cat. Is that the clever rhetoric that amuses you? Building the future of American warfare from, "Toadies' Possum Kingdom" is answered by My command.

General Morris, Firstly, Greetings from the LORD

Some gravy train assignment you have for yourself pandering to the lowest common denominator cadet. How many that served alongside you are dead because you were the stronger fornicator in the team? Basically, just count up how many have died that entered your platoon with you. Now, how many are proud skelder from that same platoon? Proud skelder include that fucker who is pimping you because they "served" with you, not just the one who is digging into tax dollars to support their refusal to form a family or build a home, because building a home or family requires work. Selling out MCRD San Diego, you stupid mother fucker. You thought you would get away with that? Newsom can get his drugs from China. There is no sugar in My coffee cup, and the LORD is busting you through Me.

To answer your mocking inquiry contemptuously directed at the LORD, in all likelihood I will pen the formation of Allness from his early days of pro generative vigour producing twins [He didn't even get an orgasm out of the deal. So forgive God Almighty for looking forward to matrimony to Me as flesh -- in the distant future.] through His reformation years across humanity bringing us to modern day. What would be epic, for Me, is having the luxury of undisturbed time channeling the detail and developing the characters as new discrete consciousness was formed from the Duad. Of course this means I Am channeling Spirit to deliver this historical narrative. The title I Am considering for the resulting text; Sucker Punched -- Loving the Shiner.

This experience of writing research including time with a team of astrophysicists and also; Greek, Persian, Egyptian, and East Asian historians is what My reading of the divine would include, if possible to include others. The narrative would explain the predestination of human life as it was experienced and of course what would be to come. The "to come" aspect would be the prophetic voice of poetry that gives room for to and fro movement between good and evil so the perfection of flesh is achieved that God called perfect, good, when His creative days had concluded.

Writing this novel work of history would encompass about two years on research with writing intervals. So, I do wonder, would Oxford make room for My scholarship, or would Harvard? Yale is a, no: as they spend too much time in the Bush.

Why don't you get on the horn and start pressing the flesh for Me to take My "Mary Poppins" act to the East Coast. That would really help with your El Presedente peaceful narcotic bartering you are sitting on, so fucking greedily. How many cadets have you sent to slaughter? Count all who have left MCRD that are dead. What a legacy you foul anus burning shit. Now that I have delivered to you the LORD's message I may commence with My usual business of doing things My way.

It is necessary to be something more than "Toady" to turn the possum kingdom cadets into the LORD's Holy Church soldiers (men.) To be worthy of bearing arms for the LORD requires a Gideon unit. I Am not going to argue why a Gideon unit is necessary, because the Gideon unit is not optional. What I will elucidate is the components of leadership that make the Gideon unit, different, as in successful.

Cadets -- the nursery -- and marines, should not have more than three discretionary hours of time for themselves if they are single, unmarried -- under law -- each day with one day of the week left for themselves. Once they have a spouse they answer to, then the spouse needs to be volunteering their time on base a minimum of six hours a day six days a week, the marines pay is increased modestly and their housing allowance is improved with matrimony. The spouse may not take on extraneous employment away from direct service to improve military assets. Arsenal is military assets. Agriculture, developing crops on base property, including, even, managing recycling facilities is part of military assets. The spouse is subjected to the same combat risks as the soldier they married. Spouses learn warfare.

Children learn warfare appropriate for their age. This means when a six year old is pretending to shoot someone with a stick they pickup off the sidewalk, they get the crap beat out of them. This means when a six year old picks up a stick and pretends to cast a spell, they get the crap beat out of them. Children learn there is no pretending to maim, harm, manipulate, or kill.

Children learn how to eat and feed others; dress themselves and avoid others because of how they dress; speak and establish friendships because of how others speak; read, write, build muscle coordination and at legal age, they can leave the base if they decide the freedom of the outside world offers them more. They will be well qualified at eighteen to enter a job with two years of legal work experience behind them, and they will have academic ability to enter any freshmen university programme (acceptance would be based on other, non academic requirements of the applied to university.) Children would also be able to utilise appropriate base facilities to protect themselves as a team while both parents were busily engaged in warfare, that assumes the base was under attack. Working age children would receive an allowance so would a spouse for contributions made to running the base operations that drew pecuniary sums from off base interactions.

Spouses might even be welding seams or wiring vessels. The spouse takes a vow to serve the military branch of service when making a vow to their soldier spouse. In all likelihood soldiers will find one another desirable in matrimony across military disciplines, and value their I-o-v-e-LINK engagement when duty does not permit being together. Being a soldier is for Life. Death is for the fornicator so recruitment numbers obviously need to be kept up.

A public interaction centre is isolated to an office with compound area where all civilian interactions are concentrated. There is no civilian access beyond that isolated point of contact and meeting area. Command will conduct their necessary meetings with all muck mucks of this foul present system of things in special meeting areas of the compound that have discrete and heavily guarded access points. Leaving the base to interact with the outside world to conduct military business means dishonourable discharge. Can soldiers leave the base? Of course. They can talk; weather, politics, religion, and even enjoy an over priced round of golf with skelder or other civilians off base. What does not happen? The base being accessed by non military. There are many more secular details I have worked out but the gist is communicated in this letter. You fail to act on this, at this time, your career is over.
